HELLO GIRL GONE WITH TICKET SELLER AND $7,000 CASH

We Are Married," Wrote Girl to Mother After Eloping With Edward Walsh.

The woman in the case of Edward Walsh, the ticket seller at the Grand Central Terminal, who disappeared on Oct. 1 after the safe in his office had been opened and $7,000 taken, has been discovered by detectives seeking the missing man. It has been learned that on the night of the robbery he called at the home of Molly Donovan, a pretty young telephone operator, at No. 769 East One Hundred and Fiftysixth Street, and she fled with him. In a letter received a few days ago by the girl's mother Mollie said she and Walsh had been married on Oct. 1 in Philadelphia and were headed West. Walsh, who is twenty-six years old and lived at No. 2874 Driggs Avenue, the Bronx, was one of the trusted employees of the railroad, his father having been employed in the baggage department for many years. The girl was at the switchboard in the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Station, and railroad employees noticed that she and Waish were together that she and Walsh were together frequently.

A short time before Walsh disappeared he had reported on several occasions that his cash drawer had been opened and at one time a little over $100 had been taken. Detectives working on these thefts found evi-deace pointing to Walsh as the thief and the detectives believe he knew this and determined to make a get-With a brace and bit he made a bluff at breaking the safe, but it was really opened through the combination, which he possessed. When Miss Donovan failed to appear for duty it was learned from the girl's mother that on the night of the robbery Walsh had visited the girl

Beads and Spangles The Newest Note in Trimmings

Fashion, in her reversion to the 1830 and Directoire types of dress, with their hoops and panniers and bouf-fante draperies, has made this pre-eminently a season of trimmings. What fur, buttons and braids are to the tailleured suits, the new beaded and spangled trimmings are to evening gowns. And nothing could more radiantly set off the shining loveliness of this season's silks than these iridescent trimmings—pale with the soft radiance of moonlight, or intense with vivid glow-

Practically all of these beaded and spangled trimmings—representing, as they do, expert hand-work—come from Europe. They are shown here in beaded bands—demi- and full-width flouncings—separate motifs-tassels, fringes and ball ornaments. Among the hundreds of designs are:

White nets, with iris The new glowing purples, spangles, in beautiful de-

Black nets, spangled with sapphire, French or peacock blue—in squares, coin dots and flower designs.

Beaded and spangled tas-sels and balls, in exquisite evening colors and white-to tuck bewitchingly among milady's puffed draperies or to tip the ends of her silken scarf or girdle.

Among other smart trimmings shown this season are the lovely tinsel and metal effects in bright and dull gold, silver, steel, and rich colors. They come in all manner of bandings, designs and widths, for dress trimmings, hair ornaments, break-

Here, too, are the colored trimming embroideries designed especially for tailored suits and gowns. These come in light and dark effects—many in Persian designs.

There are also waist garnitures, in opalescent tints, colors, and black. Tinsel, spangled and beaded flowers—velvet and satin corsage boutonnieres.
